

Volunteers from everywhere and all the agencies came together at Shefa HQ this week to compare experiences of volunteering and their lives in the Shefa communities.

They help to bring out the talents and skills of the Shefans with whom they live and work and in return receive an education into a lifestyle which seems to appeal to them all.

Shefa is grateful for the volunteers who give of their time and efforts, and the volunteers take some fairly precious memories with them when they go home – wherever it is.
